Item 2.02 Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

In connection with the Offering described in Item 8.01 below, the Company provided the information set forth under Item 7.01 below. The information set forth in the last sentences of each of the third and sixth paragraphs of item 7.01 below is hereby incorporated by reference into this Item 2.02.

The information in this Item 2.02 shall not be deemed “filed” for purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or otherwise subject to liabilities of that Section.

Item 7.01 Regulation FD.

In connection with the Offering described in Item 8.01 below, the Company provided the following information and accordingly is furnishing such information hereby for purposes of compliance with Regulation FD. The information in this Item 7.01 shall not be deemed “filed” for purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or otherwise subject to liabilities of that Section.

The Company submitted a declaration of commerciality on the Mahogany discovery in March 2015. The Company expects to submit a plan of development concerning the Mahogany discovery area later this year. The Company is currently in discussions with the government of Ghana regarding the declarations of commerciality for the Teak and Akasa discoveries.

In March 2015, the Company completed the drilling of the CB-1 exploration well on the Al Khayr prospect. The CB-1 well encountered sub-commercial hydrocarbon bearing reservoirs and was plugged and abandoned. The Company expects to record approximately $83.0 million of exploration expense during the first quarter of 2015 associated with the CB-1 exploration well.

In March 2015, the Company closed a farm-out agreement with Chevron Mauritania Exploration Limited (“Chevron”), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Chevron Corporation, for a part of the Company’s participating interest in the C8, C12 and C13 contract areas offshore Mauritania. Under the terms of the agreement, Chevron will acquire a 30% non-operated working interest in each of the C8, C12 and C13 contract areas in exchange for paying a disproportionate share of the costs of one exploration well and a second contingent exploration well, subject to maximum expenditure caps. In addition, Chevron will pay its proportionate share of previously incurred exploration costs. Chevron will not initially fund drilling of the Tortue prospect, but retains the option to participate in this prospect after the transaction is completed.

In March 2015, the Company closed a farm-in agreement with Repsol Exploración, S.A. (“Repsol”), acquiring a non-operated interest in the Camarao, Ameijoa, Mexilhao and Ostra blocks offshore Portugal. The Company’s participating interest in the blocks is 31%. Repsol, Petroleos de Portugal—Petrogal, S.A. and Partex (Iberia) S.A. participating interest in the blocks will be 34%, 30% and 5%, respectively. Repsol will remain the operator.

In March 2015, following the lenders’ semi-annual redetermination, the borrowing base under the Company’s commercial debt facility remained unchanged at $1.5 billion. For the first time, the borrowing base calculation included value related to the Tweneboa-Enyenra-Ntomme development project in Ghana, as well as the Jubilee field. As of March 31, 2015, undrawn availability under the commercial debt facility was $1,000.0 million.

The risk factor below supplements the risks discussed in the “Item 1A. Risk Factors” section of the Company’s annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2014.

A maritime boundary demarcation dispute between Côte d’Ivoire and Ghana may affect a portion of our license areas offshore Ghana.

The historical maritime boundary between Ghana and its western neighbor, the Republic of Côte d'Ivoire, forms the western boundary of the DT Block offshore Ghana. In early 2010, Côte d'Ivoire petitioned the United Nations to demarcate the Ivorian territorial maritime boundary with Ghana, which is based on the equidistance maritime line to the corresponding land border. In response to the petition, Ghana established a Boundary Commission to undertake negotiations with Côte d'Ivoire in an effort to resolve to their respective maritime boundary. The Ivorian Government then issued a map in September 2011, which reflected potential petroleum license areas that overlap with the DT Block. In September 2014, Ghana submitted the matter to arbitration under the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, and in December 2014, the two parties agreed to transfer the dispute to the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (the "ITLOS"). On January 12, 2015, the ITLOS formed a special chamber to address the maritime boundary dispute.

On March 2, 2015, Côte D'Ivoire applied to the ITLOS for a provisional measures order suspending activities in the disputed area in which the TEN project is located until the substantive case concerning the border dispute is adjudicated. More specifically, the provisional measures application asked that Ghana be ordered to: (i) suspend all ongoing exploration and exploitation operations in the disputed area, (ii) refrain from granting any authorizations for new exploration and exploitation in the disputed area, (iii) not use any data acquired in the disputed area in any way that would detriment Côte d'Ivoire, and (iv) take any necessary action for the preservation of the continental shelf, its water, and its underground in the disputed area. In late March 2015, the ITLOS chamber met to hear arguments from each of Ghana and Côte d'Ivoire concerning the provisional measures application. A ruling concerning such provisional measures order is expected in April 2015. If the provisional measures application is fully granted, DT block partners (including Kosmos), led by the operator of the block, Tullow Oil plc (through its subsidiary), will be prevented from continuing its development and production operations at the TEN project at least until a determination regarding the boundary demarcation dispute is made by ITLOS (which is not expected to occur until 2017) or the dispute is amicably resolved earlier.

Uncertainty remains with regard to the outcome of the provisional measures application and the outcome of the broader boundary demarcation dispute between Ghana and Côte d'Ivoire. We do not know if the maritime boundary will change our and our block partners' rights to develop our discoveries within such areas. In the event that Côte d'Ivoire is successful in its provisional measures application or maritime border claims, or if the proceedings result in an unfavorable outcome for Ghana, our operations within such areas could be materially impacted.
